Tools for identifying a company's edge

We search for quality stocks which have durable competitive advantages alongside robust business models, and therefore strong and sustainable long-term growth potential.

The global equities team uses a framework that thoroughly evaluates the source and durability of a company's competitive advantage. This helps to identify those companies that can maintain strong fundamentals and that can compound growth over the medium to long term.

Identifying risks to durability

A proven quality approach to global equities

With over 20 years' investment experience and backed by a global research team, FE Alpha Manager David Dudding applies his successful investment approach managing European and global equities strategies to the Threadneedle Global Focus Fund.
